SUGGEST REMEDY FOR TREE FAMINE

Conservation Experts Say Only Way to Relieve the Scarcity of Lumber is by the Planting of Trees.

vation experts from all sections of the United States and a delegation from Canada arrived here Monday to take part in the meeting of the fifth National Conservation congress which Several section meetings were held Monday at which preliminary features of the congress were discussed. The National Association of Conservation commissioners was addressed by Secy, Lane, who made a plea for greater co-operation between the state and federal authorities.

The secretary declared that the greatest obstacle in the preparation of an adequate conservation policy was the conflict between those who believed in state rights. This conflict, he said, was responsible for the difficulty the federal authorities experienced in obtaining the co-operation of states. "Now the government is not wedded to any particular theory, but it is wedded to practical tests that will develop something to better the country," continued Secy. Lane. "We are indifferent to the agency employed. You represent the states, I represent what is called the central government, We can co-operate and manifestly there can be no success unless we do Referestation was declared to be the remedy for the coming timber famine in the report of a sub-committee to the forestry section. "Successful commercial planting," the report concluded, "depends upon a good future which to plant choice species suited to the needs of the markets and to the conditions, local and regional, relative freedom from sources of damage, a low initial cost of planting and a return on the money invested equal at least to a fair rate of interest. The long time nature of the investment. makes planting more feasible for the federal, state and local governments or long-lived corporations than for the individual or small company." Other addresses were made before the association of commissioners by Dr. C. R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin; Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the Geological survey: H. J. Waters, president of the Kansas State Agricultural college; C. F. Marbut, United States bureau of soils, and C. B. Waldren of the department of agriculture and forestry, North Dakota Agricultural college.

Visit to Home Folks But Will President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 .- Definite rency committee to complete their drafts of the currency bill, and submit them to the senate by Thursday, was followed by general talk at the capitol of an adjournment of congress over lity of adjournment on both sides of the capitol, however, failed to take any definite shape. No adjournment will be taken without the consent of the president and he has not yet made known his views. In the senate it was believed the president might agree to a brief recess, although it has been known that he desired to have congress in session in the event of emergencies arising in the Mexican situation.
